

Burgundy 2017 En Primeur Offer

“They are so delicious and refreshing that I predict you will be seduced.”

Allen Meadows, Burghound

“2017 Burgundy: A Modern Classic”

Neal Martin, Vinous.com

“When it’s good, 2017 is very good indeed”

Tim Atkin MW, Decanter.com

“Speaking of overall wine quality, the key takeaway for readers is that when the 2017s are good, they are very good (even sometimes great) and entirely classic in style.”

Allen Meadows, Burghound

“2017 White Burgundy: Quantity, Quality and Great Charm”

Stephen Tanzer, Vinous.com

“A lovely vintage north to south: wines singing their heart out.”

Julia Harding MW, JancisRobinson.com

“The 2017 reds are very good, often excellent, and from time to time, bloody awesome”

Neal Martin, Vinous.com

“Many 2017 reds are so fruit-driven and charming that they will drink well on release; and many producers sagely opted to bottle their wines early to capture that fruit. That notwithstanding, I suspect the best 2017s will prove sneakily long-lived, aging by virtue of their balance rather than any massive reserves of tannin or acid”

William Kelley, RobertParker.com

“Wines of Freshness, Transparency and Refinement.”

Allen Meadows, Burghound

“There are some quite brilliant whites that, many growers are beginning to opine, equal or even surpass the haloed 2014s”

Neal Martin, Vinous.com

“Classically balanced and beautifully defined by site, these white Burgundies are less tangy and tensile than the 2014s, but they approach and sometimes surpass that vintage in quality. There is a succulence and plenitude to the 2017 whites that makes them very appealing indeed”

William Kelley, RobertParker.com

Burgundy 2017 Vintage Overview

Burgundy producers are often tarnished with the same brush as is used to paint many of the big Châteaux in Bordeaux. Steep price rises over the last decade for the top tier of Bordeaux on account of increasing global demand has been met with more moderate rises in Burgundy, but in the case of the latter, that has largely been as a result of six years of hail, frost and other factors reducing harvests and in some cases it has also led some Domaines into financial difficulty.

It comes with great pleasure therefore to report that in October we visited our producers in Burgundy to be greeted with relief, smiles and full cellars from the more generous 2017 and 2018 harvests. The impact of these full cellars means there was less pressure to increase prices further to offset the low volumes, but what does it mean for the liquid in the bottle?

While 2017 was a considerably easier vintage for the vigneron than recent years (though not without the occasional scare), it did throw up a handful of dilemmas which would impact the style and quality of the resultant wines. In contrast to every other vintage since 2009, conditions favoured high yields and there was therefore the temptation to produce additional volume to counter the recent production shortfalls. In some cases, if Domaines took this too far the result was wines that appeared a little dilute, but those who did accept a slight reduction in yields through green harvesting did end up with excellent concentration.

At the winemaking stage, given the ripe fruit, modest acidity and moderate, natural tannin, to achieve wines with the structure of say 2016s, there was a temptation perhaps to extract more than usual during vinification. Such a decision however was often at odds with the vintage style, resulting in wines somewhat lacking in charm and balance. Producers who avoided these two traps produced the best wines of the vintage and in my view it was clear who these producers were. Needless to say, our decision on which Domaines to buy from and subsequently offer for sale was heavily informed by this assessment.

The best reds this year are soft, supple, charming and absolutely delicious for relatively early drinking - it's an interesting comparison with the last two vintages. 2016 offers more tannin, acidity and greater power, but does require patience. 2015 offers opulence and concentration but perhaps less of Pinot Noir's hallmark; elegance. Allen Meadows (Burghound.com) makes reference in his report to the vintage being rather 'barbell'-like, i.e. particularly good at the more modest end of the price spectrum and again at the top, but patchier in the £50-100 a bottle bracket. I'd certainly echo those sentiments, but I'd stress how perfect 2017 is at sub-£25 a bottle, providing wines which are fruit forward, easy to appreciate and which don't require long-term cellaring. Perfect for impatient Burgundy fans like me!

At their best, the whites are simply terrific. 2017 is a little like a cross of the best elements from 2014 and 2015. It has the richness of latter, but the vibrancy of the former. It is not dissimilar perhaps then to 2016, but in my view there is a slight notch up in overall quality. In fact, RobertParker.com's Burgundy review William Kelley is of the view that many of the whites even surpass the outstanding 2014s in terms of quality. The yields for Chardonnay were lower than for Pinot Noir and as a result the temptation to over crop was not an issue. The richness of the vintage therefore didn't suffer, yet the warm temperatures in summer along with timely pre-harvest rain ensured balance and freshness.

Which wines would I particularly look out for in 2017? If I was forced to pick the single most exciting estate of 2017 it would be Domaine Gilbert et Christine Felettig whose range, from their outstanding Aligoté (wonderful with seafood) right through to the top, was impeccable. I'd also propose using this vintage to stock up on the more affordable reds while you wait for your 2015s and 2016s to mature.

May I take the opportunity also to comment on how we allocate the top labels which are in most limited supply. Given the typically high demand and finite volumes in Burgundy, we want to limit any possible disappointment customers may experience. In the case of the wines marked with an (A) in the lists priority for these wines will be given to those customers who bought the same wines in the 2016 vintage and who are also buying from across the 2017 range. We feel it is most important to reward customers for their loyalty not only to us, but also to a particular estate. We will hold a waiting list for these wines and should additional volume become available This is not necessarily how other merchants offer these wines, but we feel it is a fair and logical method. Wines which are not marked with an (A) will be offered on a first come first served basis.

Drink by dates at this stage are very difficult to predict and are for a guide only. In many cases we've erred on the side of pessimism and once bottled we would expect these dates to be extended in most cases.

Please note wines marked with an (A) are strictly on allocation as outlined on page 3, a waiting list will be held should volumes not be taken up from those customers who bought the wine last year and are buying across the range.

Drink by dates at this stage are very difficult to predict and are for a guide only. In many cases we've erred on the side of pessimism and once bottled we would expect these dates to be extended in most cases.

Domaine Antoine Jobard

"Incisive but concentrated, Antoine Jobard's style was a perfect match for the 2017 vintage, and he has produced a predictably lovely range of wines that will be well worth readers' avid attention."
William Kelley, RobertParker.com

Antoine Jobard took over from his father François on his retirement twelve years ago, becoming the fifth generation to take charge of the Domaine. The 2011 vintage was the first time we had tasted chez Jobard and the wines hugely impressed. Since then the bar has been raised higher still each year. Here is a perfect example of the trend seen in Meursault over the last few years where the archetypal sweet-fruited, buttery, highly-oaked wines that dominate popular perception of the appellation have started to give way to wines that are more lightly oaked and earlier picked, keeping a tension and focus to the wine and allowing the terroir to better express itself. Jobard now produces "some of the most long lived Meursaults" (Andrew Jefford, The New France). The flavour profile too is shifting, from tropical fruits to citrus.

"A cuvée derived from Sous la Velle, Les Chaumes de Narvaux and Corbins, the 2017 Meursault Village exhibits aromas of smoky pear, toasted nuts and dried white flowers, followed by a medium to full-bodied, fleshy but tensile palate, with lovely texture and cut, concluding with a penetrating finish."

Domaine Bouard-Bonnefoy

Having forged a career in the Army, Fabrice Bouard moved the family's Domaine away from bottling for négociants and now concentrates on their own five hectares of vines including seven different Premiers Crus. While we're reasonably well set for the whites, although volumes here are tiny at the best of times, the red Chassagne-Montrachet really stood out as part of a larger tasting with other producers and always offers excellent value versus the appellation's more fashionable whites.

"One of the great shames in Burgundy I think, is the commercial pressure to replant Pinot Noir in Chassagne to Chardonnay. This is simply because the market can command a higher price for white Chassagne than it can for red despite the terroir suiting Pinot in many cases. This is a great fun wine, modest in price for the appellation and represents a fruit forward, early drinking Pinot Noir with lovely svelte tannins, perfumed dark fruit characters which is a lovely match with lamb or game."
Gus McLean, Fine Wine Manager

Domaine Bachelet-Monnot

"What can I say? What more needs to be said? These guys are just making stupendous white Burgundy wines that rank alongside the best you can find... If you have not discovered the Bachelet brothers yet, it's time to do so."

Jancis Robinson

Based in picturesque Dezize-Lès-Maranges, but with several parcels of Meursault, Chassagne- and Puligny-Montrachet village and Premier Cru vineyards, Domaine Bachelet-Monnot are one of the most exciting additions to our range over the last decade and have already got quite a following. The estate is run by brothers Marc and Alexandre and their wines, both red and white, are delicious, each seeming to get the balance between drinkability and structure just right.

In 2017 the proportions of new oak have been further dialled back, allowing the fruit to express itself more clearly and for the terroir difference between each cuvée to be further accentuated.

“In the context of the vintage as a whole, this entry level Bourgogne rouge is a little more 2016-like than I’d have expected. Less fragrant than many this year, with firmer tannins and structure. The fruit is fully ripe, but more elegant and refined. The tannins are very fine, but surprisingly concentrated and this suggests the wine would benefit from a year or two in bottle. Half the fruit for this cuvée is from Maranges, the other half from underneath the village of Puligny.”

“Light, bright yellow. Aromas of white peach, noble herbs and toasty oak are lifted by a stony quality (none of these ‘17s show any exotic character). Fine-grained, concentrated wine with sweet flavors of stone fruits and white flowers nicely framed by harmonious acidity. This wine really benefited from the dry growing season, noted Alexandre Bachelet, who added that its pH is 3.1, about the same as that of the village Chassagne. Offers good density and grip for village wine.”

“(made from six parcels located “next to” the premier and grand crus of Chassagne-Montrachet, according to Alexandre Bachelet, who added that about half of these vines are less than 30 years old): Distinctly floral, pure scents of pear, white peach and menthol; showing well today thanks to the earlier malolactic fermentation, which finished in February. Juicy and light on its feet, with its flavors of white peach, menthol and dusty stone displaying modest flesh but lovely precision. Finishes with very good lift. The Bachelets will rack this wine just before the 2018 harvest, but it will remain in stainless steel until bottling next March or April.”

Round and savory, with the flavors of fresh apricot and mirabelle conveying good texture but only moderate depth. Turned fatter and spicier with air but could use more cut and lift. This may be in a slightly oxidative phase today. While half of these vines were planted in 1998, the other half date back to 1945, which Marc Bachelet says makes them among the oldest vines in Meursault.”

Domaine François Buffet

Based in a cracking spot in the heart of Volnay behind the church, Marc-Olivier Buffet has some low-roofed, charming cellars comprising not only the 2017s in their barrels, but a selection of bottled wines dating back to the Second World War, alas not available for sale! In his vineyards he is a keen exponent of repiquage, replacing individual wines once they are dead or have stopped producing rather than ripping up large plots at one time, thus maximising the age of his vines. He has seven hectares spanning Volnay, Pommard and Savigny-Lès-Beaune. Buffet's wines remain great value, despite the quality on show here in 2017 – without doubt our best tasting at this address so far.

“Without question the best tasting I've had at this Domaine, the wines were pure and polished, but very easy to appreciate, a far cry from Volnay and Pommard in the 90s and 00s which were often tough and tannic. This is my favourite vineyard site in Volnay and generally produces the rounded, most fruit rich style of Volnay. It's wonderfully juicy and vibrant with great texture and concentration. I love it!”

Domaine Camus-Bruchon

Although there is archival evidence dating the domaine back to 1704, for almost 250 years the succession passed through a sole female heir. Until the birth of Lucien Camus in 1949 therefore, the Domaine name changed with each successive generation. Luc and his wife Bernadette (née Bruchon) are blessed with both a son, Guillaume, who since 2001 has been working full-time at the Domaine and a daughter, Alexandra, who is the oenologist at the well-known Beaune négociant Albert Bichot.

Based on the edge of Savigny and overlooking the village's finest plots, this Domaine has 9.5ha of vineyard across regional, village and Premier Cru sites in Savigny, Pommard and Beaune. As we've come to expect from this estate's wines, the 2017s are wonderfully expressive and are perfect wines for those who perhaps want a little more vibrancy and fruit in their Burgundy. That said, they age remarkably well too.

"Compared to their Chores below, this is the more elegant wine in their range, a style which suits the Burgundy purists perhaps? "In my view, the pick of their range this year, more exuberant than the Bourgogne, really vibrant, full of dark spice, really concentrated without being over-extracted. "This completes the trio of wines we're offering from this charming Domaine perfectly, whereas I feel the Bourgogne and Chorey are quite contrasting in style in the context of the Domaine's philosophy, this adds another dimension still. A more serious wine with a tannic structure to age. A little less expressive at this stage versus the Chorey, but with a refinement and polish that justifies the price tag. A classic Savigny which I would suggest would benefit from 4-5 years in bottle."
Gus McLean, Fine Wine Manager

Domaine Jean Chartron

"His wines have tended to be a little underrated out there in the market place." "A producer that is improving with every passing vintage."
Neal Martin

Massive quality improvements at any particular estate tend to take a few years for consumers to notice. Subsequently prices tend to rise accordingly. Chartron are in that sweet spot for consumers of producing excellent wines, but the market not yet fully recognising this, although as you can see from the quote above, some of the critics have. These wines will appeal greatly to those drinkers who appreciate a more elegant, food friendly style of white Burgundy. That said, the 'Benoites' traditionally suits those who prefer a weightier style.

Jean-Michel was wearing a smile as wide as a Cheshire cat's when we arrived at the Domaine to taste. That might have something to do with the quality of the 2017s. In fact, this might well be the best vintage we have ever tasted from this Domaine, edging ahead of the outstanding 2014s.

It has an attractive bouquet with orange blossom, touches of vanilla pod and white chocolate, very well defined and focused. The palate is well balanced with a taut, quite tensile entry. This is quite linear at first, but precise and detailed with a touch of spice on the finish. Very fine, but it needs 18 to 24 months in bottle."

Domaine Confuron-Gindre

A quick trip up Rue de la Tâche in Vosne took us to this Domaine – I still cannot believe this estate remains under the radar of many of major critics (although Clive Coates did suggest that “someone in Britain should snap him up” back in 2008). That said, the Domaine has a focus on supplying high end restaurants within France, rather than supplying the export market.

These wines are perhaps on the richer side of the Vosne spectrum, but are tremendously well polished and balanced. In an otherwise quite wealthy village of Vosne-Romanée, there’s something refreshingly unpretentious about this Domaine.

Domaine de la Vougeraie

"Domaine de la Vougeraie has almost discretely become a major player in top quality, occasionally profound Burgundy wine. With winemaker Pierre Vincent, there was a significant turnaround in style and quality -- the wines discovering terroir expression, nuance and elegance, poise and complexity. I've lost count the number of times their wines have triumphed in blind tastings and yet still, I don't think this domaine receives the credit that is due."

Neal Martin

By common consent of most Burgundy followers, quality at Domaine de la Vougeraie was lifted to a significant degree during the tenure of head winemaker Pierre Vincent. 2017 though was the first vintage since his departure and the big question was whether the winemaking team, now led by the delightfully enthusiastic Sylvie Poillot, had learnt sufficiently from the master to simply pick up the baton and run. Based on the evidence of the 2017s here, the answer is a most definite yes! The sheer attention to detail required in the vineyard to commit to biodynamic wine production means every 'i' is dotted and every 't' crossed, no short cut is taken and this level of precision makes for impeccable quality fruit.

Just as it was under Vincent, the reds in particular in 2017 show a wonderful balance between structure and primary fruit, helped by the partial inclusion of whole bunches in the vat, varying between 30 and 50% depending on the wine. What's more, they are vibrant, intense and packed with the required stuffing to age.

Domaine François Bertheau

"A lovely portfolio of supple, fragrant wines that represent the essence of Chambolle in their elegance and purity."

William Kelley, RobertParker.com

To call François Bertheau eccentric would be an understatement; he is with little doubt the most charismatic winemaker we met all week. Based in the centre of Chambolle-Musigny, François took over from his father Pierre in 2003 and has since had no shortage of suitors for his vineyard holdings which are all based in Chambolle and which include two of the most desirable sites in Burgundy. Stylistically these wines are fascinating, he practices 'lutte raisonnée' and allows the fruit to determine the style of the wine and gives it every chance by limiting manipulation in the vineyard and winery, minimal new oak and minimal racking gives a wonderfully delicate, perfumed style and has earned this Domaine cult status with sommeliers around the world.

François likes to do things his way and when we asked when he harvested in 2017, he described himself in Tour de France not as the 'Lanterne Rouge', the last rider in the race, but as the 'Voiture Balai', the broom wagon that follows an hour or so after the last rider has passed!

Domaine Faiveley

Over the course of the last five years, the low yields in Burgundy have caused a number of issues for the consumer, none more so than the prices being paid for fruit going through the roof. It is for this reason that we wanted to explore Domaines who own their own vineyards, where there is less of an impact from the open market for fruit making its way through to the price ultimately paid for the finished bottle. Along with sheer quality, this was one of the main reasons for bringing this Domaine back into our range three years ago.

While Faiveley's vineyard holdings are extensive by Burgundian standards, quality reflects the fact that this is a family Domaine, making wine from parcels under its own ownership. In fact, they care for their wines so much, this is the only cellar I have ever seen where the most precious wine is kept in barrel closed with a lockable bung!

The number of decades-olds examples of Faiveley's wines that are pulled out for retrospective tastings underlines the fact that these wines are likely to appeal greatly to the traditionalist who is looking for more structure and for wines to cellar rather than for instant gratification. Some of the most impressive Burgundies we have tasted are from this Domaine, but all of them have been at the peak of maturity, so patience is certainly rewarded here. Though in saying that, the charming Mercurey 'La Framboisière' is once again a notable exception which can be enjoyed young.

Allen Meadows, Burghound

Both Allen Meadows and Neal Martin have earmarked siblings Gilbert and Christine Felletig's Chambolle-Musigny Domaine as a rising star and our visits here over the last three years have really reinforced this view. This year we tasted a delicious range of well-made reds where Gilbert's judgment of the optimum levels of new oak use and whole bunch fermentation seemed absolutely spot on for every wine. The wines here showed a beautiful purity of fruit as well as supple tannins and were simply delightful to taste. "The 2017 Chambolle-Musigny Les Combottes 1er Cru comes from vines over 60 years old and sees around 60% new oak. The bouquet is more introspective and the fruit blacker than the Les Fuées, featuring blackberry and bilberry tinged with earthy, sous-bois aromas. The dense, sinewy palate is medium-bodied with supple tannin and fine acidity, though I miss the finesse shown by the Les Fuées on the finish. Give this several years in bottle."

"This is also moderately toasty with its fresh nose of more deeply pitched aromas of plum, dark cherry, spice and a wisp of violet. There is both better volume and mid-palate density to the medium-bodied flavors that possess a velvety mouthfeel, all wrapped in a generous if not particularly complex finale though I suspect that more depth will develop with a few years of bottle age."

"I wonder if there's a greater show of confidence in a wine than highlighting this is probably the wine in our range that I've bought in greater volume for my own 'cellar' last year than any other. In fact, I've just taken the last 6 bottles of the 2016 we had in stock the day I write this up. Neal Martin in his article on 2017 flags Aligoté as a style to target and this is exactly why. Though not as weighty as Chardonnay it still has a rich, Burgundian texture but with more stone fruit and citrus notes. The acidity is higher than Chardonnay making it a perfect aperitif or a great match with shellfish, Indian food or poultry."

Domaine Gaston Ravaut

Last year was the first visit we had made to this estate based in Ladoix-Serrigny, just south of Nuits-Saint-Georges. Gaston's son Pierre now runs the estate, focussing on the viticulture whilst his colleague Vincent takes care of vinification. A true family Domaine which typifies the traditional Burgundy ethos. They primarily sell direct to consumers from the cellar, but we're delighted to be one of the first to offer them in the UK.

2017 was a very strong follow up vintage to the 2016s that impressed us so much last year. True to their geography straddling the border between the Côte de Beaune and the Côte de Nuits, the wines combine elegance with power, silky tannins with mid-palate weight and red fruit with black.

Domaine Georges Lignier

"Georges Lignier's nephew Benoît Stehly has been involved in the domaine since 2002 and took over sole responsibility in 2008, since which time the wines have become finer and finer."
Jancis Robinson

Among one of the most humble and charming people you would want to meet, Benoît Stehly is producing some delightful wines at this Domaine in Morey. Benoît has been working there since 1998 and has taken on the day to day management in the last decade.

This estate is on a run of top form over recent vintages, producing quite a spread of elegant wines across the range of classifications. It's notable that Jancis Robinson in particular is starting to appreciate the appeal of these wines as her 2016 feature on Domaine Georges Lignier testifies – "I'd like to draw your attention to a domaine that seems to be getting better and better."

I had a slight pang of angst before tasting the 2017s here, as the trademark light yet flavour-packed house style could easily have been in danger of being diluted had yields not been kept down. I should have known though that Benoît would deliver the goods and that he did in spades, with the village and Grand Cru wines in particular absolutely singing. Once again then, the 2017s come highly recommended.

Joseph Drouhin

"...it is clear that there is much to enjoy courtesy of Drouhin this year, and not only amongst their bevy of Premier and Grand Crus. Their whites are particularly strong and I would single out the Chassagne-Montrachet Embazées,"

Neal Martin

Maison Drouhin was established in 1880 by Joseph Drouhin and has remained a family affair ever since, being run nowadays by the fourth generation. Frédéric is assuming overall control of the firm from his father Robert while his brother Philippe and sister Véronique, who both studied at Dijon now look after the vineyards and winemaking respectively. The estate itself occupies the breathtaking Parliament building, one of the most beautiful cellars in all of Beaune, originating from when Burgundy was an independent duchy.

Nearly all of Domaine Drouhin is fully organic and biodynamic, with that very same philosophy being extended to newly acquired vineyards. Benefitting from the use of optical sorting tables from 2013 onwards, these wines are often darker, denser and more concentrated than many.

"The 2017 Beaune Clos des Rouches Rouge 1er Cru, picked September 4–7, contains a little more whole cluster fruit this year – around 30%, according to Véronique Drouhin. Sensual, ripe red cherry, cranberry and subtle bergamot tea aromas gently unfold in the glass. The palate is well balanced with supple tannin, good substance, veins of white pepper and even a very slight flintiness toward a finish that lingers in the mouth. "The 2017 Clos de Vougeot Grand Cru was picked between September 8 and 11 from a parcel in the middle of the clos and includes 30% whole clusters. Véronique Drouhin said that because it was a warm season, the blend includes a parcel from the lower part of the Grand Cru that they usually sell off. This has quite a sumptuous bouquet of copious red cherries, kirsch and subtle blueberry aromas, becoming more and more floral in the glass. The lightly spiced palate is medium-bodied on the entry, offering gentle grip, although I feel it does not quite deliver the precision on the finish compared directly with the superlative Clos-de-Bèze."

Domaine Henri Gouges

"A producer that I greatly admire"
Neal Martin

Domaine Gouges is one of Nuits-Saint-Georges's most famous Domaines and one of the appellation's best – "the doyen of Nuits-Saint-Georges with magnificent wines" says Clive Coates MW. The Gouges family have been owners of this Domaine since 1919 and founder Henri is something of a Burgundian revolutionary. He was a key player in the battle against fraud and was the first Burgundian to bottle his own wine because it guarantees provenance and therefore quality. Domaine bottling is now practised throughout Burgundy. Grandson Gregory runs the Domaine with the same drive and passion for quality as his legendary grandfather.

The Domaine's wines were renowned under Henri as some of the most structured and long-lived of Nuits-Saint-Georges' wines. However, Gregory has been working towards a more approachable style. That said, these are still wines very much built for ageing.

Domaine Jean Grivot

"The reputation of Grivot's wines have grown, placing them perhaps just outside the top tier of Domaine de la Romanée-Conti or Leroy."
Neal Martin

One of the Côte d'Or's greatest and longest-established Domaines, Grivot is now predominantly in the hands of Mathilde, who in the last few years has been gradually taking over from her father Etienne.

The house style remains the same, with late harvesting and extended periods of barrel ageing resulting in a muscular, structured style that can be difficult to taste when young, but which after a few years in the cellar open up to reveal beautiful black-fruit driven wines. The quality of the Domaine's holdings helps in no small part, however the Grivot magic is evident across the range, even on the Gamay-based Coteaux Bourguignons.

Domaine Henri Jouan

“The style is supple, fragrant and fruit-driven, the wines invariably succulent and satiny, drinking well young and old. Quite why Jouan remains so little known is hard to say—perhaps because there is so little wine?—but readers would do well to seek out this high-quality source, which has rendered an excellent set of 2017s.”
William Kelley, RobertParker.com

Wonderfully stubborn in his winemaking approach, Philippe (Henri's son) has a method and he sticks by it – gentle extractions, no green harvesting, the fruit always 100% destemmed and all of his new oak sourced from a single cooper, François Frères. The resultant wines are frankly rather delicious; fruit- rather than tannin-driven, with the word 'succulent' coming up several times in our notes. The only fly in the ointment? Availability, as alluded to by Bill Nanson in his assessment of the Domaine – “understated but with an excellent baseline of quality – I just need to work out how I will now buy some wine!” Production here is a mere three hectares.

Domaine Heresztyn-Mazzini

"This is a fine address if you are seeking an alternative to, say, Armand Rousseau. Heresztyn-Mazzini is in the same mould as their neighbour, Pierre Duroché: very hands-off winemaking, letting the vineyard speak; mineral-driven and elegant wines... Yes, I know the name is a bit of a tongue-twister, but trust me, the wines are worth seeking out."

Neal Martin

Based right in the heart of Gevrey-Chambertin, 2017 is the third vintage we have offered from this Domaine and it may well be the best. Run by Florence and her husband Simon, in the vineyard the operation is run organically, with full biodynamic certification due to follow imminently. This of course necessitates a painstaking level of attention to detail in the vineyards, something that is also in evidence in the winery, with every decision, for example about the percentage of whole clusters to use, being pored over and each cuvée being treated separately according to its own needs. The wines are an absolute pleasure to drink, with the silky texture of the tannins and the purity of the fruit noteworthy.

"The 2017 Gevrey-Chambertin Vieilles Vignes comes from vines over 60-years old and it matures in 25% new oak and 50% whole bunches. This has a very expressive bouquet with blackberry, briary and light loamy aromas. The palate is medium-bodied with white pepper sprinkled over the dark berry fruit, hints of Earl Grey towards the nicely composed finish. Excellent."

It has a well defined, slightly stemmy bouquet but with sufficient fruit supporting it. This has a very lively and intense bouquet that actually puts the "Les Jouisés" in the shade - vibrant red fruit intermingling with minerals. "The 2017 Morey-Saint-Denis Les Millandes 1er Cru matures in 30% new oak with 70% whole bunch fruit from the 70-year old vines, which is the source for the domaine's massal selection. This tends to be picked earlier than the other vineyard in order to obtain freshness. The bouquet is very refined and quite intense with black cherries, boysenberry and hints of liquorice lending an exotic note to the aromas. The palate is medium-bodied with supple tannin, a little foursquare in style (reminding me of a "mini-Latricières!"), but with fine grip on the finish. It will require three or four years in barrel."

Domaine Hudelot-Baillet

"Gotta soft spot for Hudelot-Baillet...I don't mind admitting that. It's just got everything that I like about Burgundy: not too big, congenial winemaker, choice selection of premier crus with a grand cru if you fancy, straightforward winemaking, nothing fancy, nothing self-aggrandising. Just delicious, nuanced wines that need but a sip to compel a purchase"

Neal Martin

A Domaine often thought of for producing big, powerful Chambolle-Musigny has, based on our more recent tastings of their wares, produced a selection of wines we feel are perhaps more typical of the appellation; really very charming, precise and elegant. Dominique Leguen looks after the Domaine, taking over from Joel Hudelot-Baillet in 1998. It seems there is a general consensus that the estate has been on the rise since with bottling done at the Domaine and no nonsense winemaking techniques to carefully manage the extraction of tannins from the skins and minimising the influence from the pips allowing for softer, finer tannins.

One amusing episode from our tasting was that after Dominique had scurried from unmarked barrel to unmarked barrel to fetch tasting samples for us, moving up from the humble Bourgogne through to his Bonnes Mares, he realised he had missed out his Chambolle-Musigny. Mindful that trying a humble village wine straight after a wine many multiples more expensive than it could only result in disappointment, we braced ourselves. We were, however, met by a confident wine packed full of upfront fruit that didn't seem overshadowed at all.

Domaine Jean Chauvenet

Domaine Jean Chauvenet are Nuits-St-Georges specialists. Not only do they specialise in this particular village, but more specifically they focus on wines of real approachability and friendliness. Red fruits predominate and while the long-term ageing potential is certainly less than at the likes of Gouges, that is no bad thing for those looking to drink and enjoy their Nuits in the first three or four years of its life, especially given the quality on offer for the price.

The 2017 vintage really suits this Domaine's style, with the growing season's natural softness playing well against the naturally big style of the wines. The extraction levels seem high, but have not gone too far, so the resultant wines are assertive, have big tannins and are packed full of flavour.

Domaine Jean Monnier

"This is an estate whose wines I recommend with much enthusiasm."
Robert Parker

A producer who leaves us scratching our heads more so than any other. This for a number of reasons. First of all, the quality of the wines are superb, it's absolutely crazy how inexpensive they are given the quality, but the owner is so down to earth and is perhaps very fortunate with the plots he has. He seems to have no desire to charge more than he does. How more merchants have not jumped on this producer is beyond us, maybe they just don't know this tucked away Meursault Domaine? Monnier is a style which complements our range very well at prices that are hard to argue with. This seventh generation family Domaine own 100% of the fruit they use and it is all hand harvested. The wines are lovely and they really are very difficult to beat when it comes to value for money. Stylistically they very much appeal to us given they are more refreshing, with higher acidity. A perfect partner for food, although given the style we think would be lovely to enjoy on a warm summer day.

2017 sees us add a pair of Premiers Crus to the range – the white Beaune 'Montrevenot' and red Pommard 'Grands Epenots-Clos de Cîteaux'

"Just as Genevrières represents the top of the tree qualitatively for Domaine Monnier on the whites, the Grands Epenots does for the reds. In fact, this vineyard is currently under consideration for promotion to Grand Cru. A heavy clay-limestone soil lends the wine a weight and heft that would see it age very well, but this is a Domaine that excels at producing wonderfully drinkable wines and it is in fact the silky side of this site's nature that is the most evident on tasting. A very nicely done Premier Cru."

Nuits-St-Georges and particularly Vosne-Romanée is in great demand and finding good quality sources is not easy given the global clamour for these wines. To come across an under the radar family estate, like Domaine Chézeaux, turning out classic, minimal-intervention reds was a real boon and we quickly snapped up their wines. Charming and expressive of their terroir, these wines will not disappoint Burgundy fans.

"Get in at the ground floor." It's a good idea in theory, but how often does one get the opportunity to establish an allocation of the first vintage from a serious Côte d'Or Domaine to be released en primeur? Well, here we do have such an opportunity.

There are several branches of the Colin family making wine in and around Chassagne and this Domaine has been formed with Joseph splitting his holdings from those of his brother Pierre-Yves Colin-Morey.

Domaine Matrot

“Domaine Matrot expresses the quintessence of terroir. Its wines are sometimes closed when young, but their ageing potential is immense.”
La Revue du Vin de France

Domaine Matrot was established in 1909 by Joseph Matrot and had been run solely by his understated but talented grandson Thierry since 1976, with 2015 his last vintage before handing over the reins to his daughters Elsa and Adèle. They are now renowned as “a top-class Meursault producer” (Wine International) and own some of the best plots in Meursault’s finest vineyards.

The sisters, like their father before them, believe in using oak only very sparingly. They are firm believers that quality comes from the vineyard, so let the fruit do the talking. The result is a portfolio of white Burgundies that are intensely flavoured, incredibly pure tasting and which have excellent ageing potential. With one exception, they do not use new oak for their Premiers Crus, instead using the new oak normally reserved for a Domaine’s top labels in the entry level offerings in order to age the wood ready for the top wines.

This year is no different, I do feel Maranges suits this vintage very well.”

“Possibly the best vintage of this cuvée I’ve ever tasted from Matrot and that includes the wonderful 2010 and 2014s. I always think the key with Matrot’s more affordable whites is the acidity levels, given they tend to be ripe, they need a cooler vintage to maintain the freshness. The 2017 does exactly that. A little touch of honey and stone fruit is offset perfectly by a whistle-clean finish. One of the highlights of the whites this year in my view”

Not a fleshy wine but displays the most thrust and length to this point, with its persistent finish hinting at the volume of the vintage. The yield here was no higher than 50 hectoliters per hectare, according to Elsa Matrot. Very well done. Incidentally, Thierry Matrot expressed the opinion that “2017s picked before the rain can show real class,” and this wine is a good example.”

Concentrated, sappy wine, conveying a thickness of texture without any impression of weight. Shows the most urgent mineral energy of these 2017s--and not a bit overripe. This wine, along with the Combettes and Quintessence, will get a slightly longer élevage than the rest, and will be bottled sometime between November and January, according to Elsa Matrot.”

As always, the Méo-Camuzet tasting was one of the highlights of the week. If you have not had the pleasure of encountering Méo-Camuzet before, they are one of the biggest names, not only in their home town of Vosne, but in all of Burgundy. Stylistically they produce very polished, but exotic, rich wines which take oak well. They are very ageworthy, yet show well in their relative youth. Individual vineyard expression is very strong, so it is worth reading the individual notes in detail. If one thing stood out in our tasting notes in this vintage, it is the word “concentration”. While these are wines hardly known for lacking in flavour, it is perhaps at this address that 2017 comes closest to being called a “blockbuster”. Serious wines, with serious ageing potential.

"They do represent good value and I appreciate the quality-driven ethic behind these wines."
Neal Martin

A new producer to our range in 2015 and having recently visited Bernard Bouvier to taste his 2017s, he's a producer we're sure is going to be one to follow.

The Domaine's based behind a Super U supermarket in Brochon, not the most glamorous location compared to many older Domaines, but it's credit to his wines that we came away from this visit thinking they were amongst the best we tried all week. Bernard's a tremendously charismatic winemaker and that comes across in his wines. They have great richness, but not at the expense of vineyard expression, tasting his range of Marsannays side by side it a perfect lesson for anyone who doubts the importance of terroir.

91-93 Burghound

"A distinctly cool nose features notes of forest floor, the sauvage and wide array of red berry fruit aromas. The mouthfeel of the intense, muscular and well-delineated flavors is, somewhat curious, notably sleeker than those of the Echézeaux before culminating in a moderately austere and slightly more complex and persistent finish. The supporting tannins are dense but fine and this should age effortlessly."

"This is aromatically compositionally similar to the Fontenys but with markedly broader range of spice elements. I like the mouthfeel of the attractively textured and rich medium-bodied flavors that possess fine complexity on the solidly persistent, complex and punchy finish where the only nit is a hint of warmth. This caressing yet powerful effort should age well yet be approachable after only 5 to 7 years"
90-93 Allen Meadows, Burghound.com, January 2019

Domaine Servin

"Readers will be aware that I have a lot of appreciation for the wines of Domaine Servin. The domain has an array of propitious parcels scattered over the region and Marc Cameron is a thoughtful and talented winemaker."
Neal Martin

Documented by the monks of Saint Martin for owning vineyards as far back as the 16th century, successive generations of the Servin family have continued the tradition of winemaking in Chablis ever since.

Today the approach is very much a mixture of modern and traditional techniques. The best vineyard sites are hand harvested to ensure fruit arrives at optimum ripeness. Single plot vinification takes place in a mixture of stainless steel and oak, letting the differences in terroir shine in each wine. The vines average 40 years and most of the sites are on kimmeridgian limestone soils. This gives the wines their power, concentration and minerality which is so typical of the Domaine's style. The best examples have great cellaring potential.

"At this early stage, the 2017 Chablis 1er Cru Montée de Tonnerre would appear to be one of the highlights of the range, wafting from the glass with an attractive nose of lemon oil, lemon confit and honeysuckle. On the palate, it's medium to full-bodied, glossy and complete, with good tension and energy and with promising grip on the long finish."

"The 2017 Chablis Mont de Milieu 1er Cru has a well defined green apple and white peach scented bouquet augmented with a touch of mint. The palate is well balanced with a fine bead of acidity, taut and linear but delivering fine depth and tension on the finish. This comes recommended."

"Tangy and tensile, the 2017 Chablis 1er Cru Vaucoupin offers up aromas of crisp green apple, oystershell and lemon oil. On the palate, it's medium-bodied, with racy acids and a stony, mineral finish. Despite it's evident energy it appears to be charming and structurally open-knit—but it's too soon to draw a definitive conclusion."

Benjamin Leroux

"There are some exceptional wines here that rank alongside the illustrious names of Burgundy. He certainly has the gift of touch that seems to elevate everything from village crus to grand crus."

Neal Martin

Having started studying viticulture at the age of 13 and then started as the general manager of Domaine Comte Armand at just 26, it's fair to say Benjamin was a bit of a child prodigy, it's easy to forget how young he is now despite his wealth of experience garnered already. Now based in a winery in the heart of the town of Beaune, he has been acquiring new parcels of vineyard sites at quite a rate, but the quality is rising just as quickly as his vineyard holdings. Given the number of wines he now makes, it is remarkable how consistently excellent these wines are from top to bottom.

"The 2017 Vosne-Romanée Village, one of Leroux's largest cuvées at 31 barrels, a large proportion sourced from Flagey-Echézeaux, has a fragrant bouquet with white flowers complementing the red cherry and crushed strawberry fruit. The medium-bodied palate displays supple tannin, a fine bead of acidity, silky-smooth texture and a tart red cherry and orange peel finish that is quite spicy on the aftertaste. Good potential."

Maison Roche de Bellene

"Nicolas Potel's wines have a strong following in the UK, the United States and Japan and for good reason. His wide portfolio of both domaine and négociant wines can be absolutely delicious."
Neal Martin

Our visits to Nicolas Potel's Maison Roche de Bellene are always memorable for several reasons, including being reminded of how much of a wine nut Nicolas is – his knowledge of the minutest of details of for example specific sub-plots within vineyards illustrates a real attention to detail that very much manifests itself in the winery too. One would hope from a good Burgundy négociant to get a large range of wines at a consistent and good level of quality and at a keen price – Roche de Bellene ticks these boxes and goes far beyond.

This is a charming red. Ripe and with its front foot forward, this is a very friendly, crowd-pleasing Pinot Noir made predominantly from fruit surrounding the villages of Pommard and Volnay. Fragrant and silky, it is aged in extra-large barrels, which add roundness to the wine without dominating it with oak.

"Blend of two bought-in wines. His grands crus generally have 25–40% new oak. In barrel. Extremely ripe cherry fruit. Juicy and rounded. A little stemmy perhaps and seems it might be ready earlier than you might expect for a grand cru. Light tannins and long juicy finish.."

Domaines Albert Bichot

"Albert Bichot is one of those Beaune-based producers that can really surprise. Maybe like me, you spent years dismissing the wines while drinking your La Tâche and the Io and behold, you are served a bottle of Bichot blind and marvel at how well it shows."
Neal Martin

Bichot's wines are characterised by their elegance and nuance – think of a ballerina to Domaine Confuron-Gindre's rugby player! The wines feel so unforced and effortless; the very essence of what Burgundy should be about. These are not wines to convert Shiraz drinkers to the joys of Pinot Noir, but they most certainly are wines to bring a smile to the face of many an existing Burgundy fan. Bichot split the labelling of their range based upon the original Domaine names, Domaine du Clos Frantin being their site based in Nuits-Saint-Georges and Domaine du Pavillon their Pommard estate.
